FAIR HOUSING FOR RENTAL HOMES

A Guide for Renters and Property Owners and Managers in the Baltimore Region
Individuals and families looking for a rental home in the Baltimore metropolitan area are protected against discrimination by federal, state, and local laws.

THIS BOOK SERVES THE FOLLOWING PURPOSES:

- It provides general information on
  - The laws that prohibit discrimination in any of the jurisdictions in the Baltimore metropolitan area, and
  - Where you can go for more detailed information.

For renters, it provides information on where you can file a complaint.
FAIR HOUSING PROTECTIONS

The federal Fair Housing Act and state and local laws protect people from many kinds of discrimination. Protections are noted on the table opposite this page. Federal and Maryland protections apply everywhere in Maryland.

*More information further in booklet.

The Harford County Executive Order 20 establishes the County Human Relations Commission, which has no statutory enforcement power but whose objective is to receive and refer complaints of discrimination based upon race, creed, color, age, sex, disability, political affiliation, marital status, or national origin.

The City of Baltimore protects some sources of income (alimony and child support), but not others, such as rental assistance.
A rental property owner or manager is generally prohibited from doing the following based solely on the potential tenant’s membership in a protected class identified in the table on page 5:

- Refuse to rent housing
- Refuse to negotiate for housing
- Otherwise make unavailable or deny a dwelling
- Set different terms, conditions, or privileges in renting a dwelling
- Provide different housing services or facilities
- Falsely deny that housing is available for inspection or rental
- For profit, persuade, or try to persuade homeowners to rent (or sell) dwellings by suggesting that people of a particular race, etc. have moved, or are about to move into the neighborhood (blockbusting)
- Attempt to steer persons into or away from neighborhoods or apartment complexes
- Deny any person access to, or membership or participation in, any organization, facility, or service related to the rental of dwellings (such as a listing service), or discriminate against any person in the terms or conditions of such access, membership, or participation.

In some circumstances, the Fair Housing Act and other laws exempt:

- Owner-occupied buildings with no more than four units
- Single-family housing sold without the use of a broker
- Housing operated by organizations and private clubs that limit occupancy to members
- Some senior housing facilities and communities are exempt from liability for discrimination based on familial status.
- Gender preference may be acceptable if there is a shared kitchen or bath.

Please contact one of the agencies listed on page 13 for more specific information on any of these exemptions.

No one may:

- Make, print, or publish any statement, in connection with the rental of a dwelling, which indicates a preference, limitation, or discrimination based on the protected classes listed in the table on page 5. This prohibition applies to single-family and owner-occupied housing that is otherwise often exempt from the laws that prohibit discrimination in housing.
- Refuse to consider both applicants’ incomes
- Threaten, coerce, intimidate, or interfere with anyone exercising a fair housing right or assisting others who exercise the right.
- Commit acts of prejudice, violence, harassment, intimidation, or abuse directed against families or individuals or their residential property.
FAMILIAL STATUS

In general, familial status protections cover:

- Households in which one or more children under 18 years old live with:
  - A parent
  - A person who has legal custody (including guardianship)
  - The designee of a parent or legal custodian (designated with written permission)
- A pregnant woman
- Any person in the process of securing legal custody of a child under 18.

As a result of this protection, property owners and managers are not allowed to ask tenants or prospective tenants about birth control or family planning practices.

The Fair Housing Act and other laws specifically exempt some senior housing facilities and communities from liability for discrimination based on familial status. (They are not exempt from liability for other forms of housing discrimination.) Please contact one of the agencies listed on page 13 if you need more details on exactly which senior facilities and communities qualify for this exemption.
AGE

Baltimore County and Howard County law protects against age discrimination generally. Other jurisdictions enforce this protection in particular ways:

- In Baltimore City, age is defined as the “Age of Majority” and refers to anyone who has attained the age of eighteen years.
- Harford County enforces discrimination against people age 40 and above.

SEXUAL ORIENTATION AND GENDER IDENTITY

The federal Fair Housing Act does not specifically include sexual orientation and gender identity in the protected classes. However,

- The State of Maryland law and some local governments do specifically prohibit discrimination based on sexual orientation (see table on page 5).
- The State of Maryland (effective October 1, 2014), Howard and Baltimore Counties, and Baltimore City specifically prohibit discrimination based on gender identity (also noted in table on page 5).
- Some sexual orientation or gender identity housing discrimination may still be covered by other federal Fair Housing Act protections. For example:
  - A gay man is evicted because the property owner believes he will infect other tenants with HIV/AIDS. That situation may constitute illegal disability discrimination under the Fair Housing Act because the man is perceived to have a disability, HIV/AIDS.
  - A property manager refuses to rent an apartment to a prospective tenant who is transgender. If the housing denial is because of the prospective tenant’s non-conformity with gender stereotypes, it may constitute illegal discrimination on the basis of sex under the Fair Housing Act.

The Baltimore Regional Fair Housing Group consists of representatives from Baltimore City and Anne Arundel, Baltimore, Harford and Howard Counties.

The Fair Housing Group thanks Baltimore Neighborhoods, Inc., the Maryland Commission on Civil Rights, and the Maryland Multi-Housing Association for their review and assistance in compiling this booklet.

The Baltimore Regional Fair Housing Group also thanks the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) for its Fair Housing Initiatives Program (FHIP) Education and Outreach Initiative (EOI) grant that made this booklet possible. Much of the information in this booklet on federal fair housing protections also comes from HUD’s own 2011 information booklet, “Fair Housing: Equal Opportunity for All.”
